COURSE DESCRIPTION
Anthropology 331 will explore sex and gender differences between males and females. We will also look beyond North America’s two-sex, two-gender system and discuss gender creativity in our society and around the world. In brief, sex differences refer to the biological differences between males and females. Gender to the socially and culturally produced ideas about differences. In the first third of the course, we will focus our investigations on sex differences. This section will include discussions of evolutionary theory (e.g., sexual selection), primatology, and human origins research. In the remaining two-thirds of the course, we will examine gender constructions through a variety of topics, including discussions of motherhood and fatherhood, gender differences in the public and private domain, in the economy and examine gender stereotypes in the media.
