BRIEF COURSE DESCRIPTION – Social and cultural anthropology is well known for the insights provided by our cross-cultural perspective on human behavior and social organization. In this class we explore the insights to be gained by recognizing our evolutionary relationship to other primates and adding a cross-species evolutionary perspective to the study of human behavior and social organization. We are interested not just in similarities and differences between humans and other primates, but in how the combination of cross-cultural and cross-species comparative perspectives can enhance our understanding of what it means to be human.

The midterm and final exams will be essay format with some choice of questions.

Group Assignment - A 2500 word (10 double spaced pages) group work paper carefully synthesizing and summarizing 2 original articles written by Barbara Smuts. The final paper should be 2/3 synthesis/summary, and 1/3 something else – some suggestions will be discussed in class. Students will be assigned to groups of 4 to work on this paper. Clearly identify the basic outline of the papers and their related message(s). Your group is expected to meet and discuss the papers at length to ensure that the essential information and position is understood and agreed upon by all group members. You are also expected to circulate drafts of the paper among the members to ensure that the final draft is complete, articulate, well organized, and professionally polished. Four full class periods (Feb 2, Feb 16, Mar 6, Mar 22) are dedicated to group work, and attendance for these classes is mandatory. At the end of each class dedicated to group work, a 1 – 2 page statement of attendance, progress since last meeting, and a detailed work plan will be submitted. These are worth 2.5% each – individual group members may not receive the same mark – it will depend on what contributions individuals have and are making to the group and the assignment. Individuals will receive a score of zero if not present at these classes. Additionally you should plan to spend at least an additional 12 hours meeting and/or working on the assignment outside of class. All group members will receive the same grade for the final written assignment.

Classroom Expectations

1. No laptops or other devices. DRC authorized exceptions only.
2. Arrive on time to prevent disruption to the class.
3. Avoid conversation with classmates during lectures, as this is distracting to instructors and other students. However questions and comments are welcome at any time, so please feel free to raise your hand and share your thoughts or concerns with the class.
4. If you must leave the class early, please notify the instructor ahead of time and sit near the doors. Otherwise please stay seated until class is concluded. We will not run overtime.

Classroom Examination Instructions – are posted on the blackboard page. Please consult before the midterm. Registrar scheduled final exams may have different instructions depending on where it is being written.

Missed tests automatically receive a score of zero. In the event of an emergency or illness, please notify one of us, or the Anthropology main office, BEFORE the exam. Performance on make up exams is typically lower than those written with the class.

Post Exam Instructions – No special arrangements will be made following a poor test or assignment performance. For example, we cannot change the weighting of the tests/assignments or allow retakes. Prepare in advance to ensure a good test performance – this is your opportunity to perform well, not later. After, no changes will be made.

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATIONS

It is the student's responsibility to request academic accommodations. If you are a student with a documented disability who may require academic accommodation and have not registered with the
