Teaching Modality: This course is fully in-person.

Required Text - There is no textbook. Required readings include a mix of free online resources and articles from scientific journals. You can find these readings on D2L.

Prerequisites – ANTH 201, ANTH 305, and Permission of Department

Course Requirements

Ethnography review - 20% - 5-page paper due Feb 17. Students will choose to read an ethnography of a small-scale society and write a critical review of the ethnography on a topic that relates to the course material, which should be chosen in consultation with the instructor.

Midterm test - 25% - Mar 3 (in class, 75 min). This test will be multiple choice and short answer format and covers classroom and reading material up to (and including) March 1. This test is CLOSED BOOK.

HRAF project - 25% - 10-page paper due March 17. Students will perform an original research project using the Human Relations Area Files database (HRAF) to investigate some aspect of diversity in human behaviour and ecology. Students should consult with the instructor when choosing their topics.

Presentations - 20% - April 5-12. Students will give 10 minute presentations on the results of their HRAF projects to the class.

Participation - 10% - Students are expected to regularly attend class, ask questions, and participate in discussions.

Course/Learning Outcomes: By the end of the course, students should be able to:

- Articulate the key theoretical frameworks in the study of human behaviour and their social history.
- Apply biological and cultural evolutionary theory to the analysis of human traits, behaviors, and institutions.
• Critically analyze contemporary societal issues through an evolutionary and anthropological lens.
• Develop an appreciation for and understanding of recent and modern diversity among human small-scale societies.

Accessing Lectures: Slides (in PDF format) will be posted online. These can be accessed through the course’s D2L website shortly after class. Please note: although related and sometimes overlapping, the material in the readings is not necessarily tightly integrated with the lectures. These should be considered as two separate sets of information, both to be mastered for the test. Exams will be based on all materials covered in class including the presented lectures, any guest lectures, and movies.

Required technology: Students will need an internet connection to access course materials on D2L and a computer with a word processor and software to create the presentation.

Classroom Regulations and Expectations
• Try to arrive on time to prevent disruption to the class. If you are late, please take a seat near the door to minimize disruption. Likewise, please stay seated until the lecture is finished.
• Please do not converse with classmates during lectures. This is unfair to students sitting nearby who may miss lecture material that will subsequently appear on exams. If you are discussing lecture, material please raise your hand to share the comment or question as that will benefit the whole class. Relevant interruptions are always welcome. You may also email questions to me which will be answered at the next class (the questioner will remain anonymous). Likewise, all e-mail enquiries about tests will be answered in class.
• Please turn phones off during class.

Communication guidelines – we offer you this advice to help you have more successful communication in this course and in your professional life in general:
• You are welcome to communicate with the Professor and TA by email or in person before and after class, during office hours, or by appointment.
• Use a professional email address (such as your ucalgary address or a yourname@gmail.com) for professional correspondence (such as messages to your Professor or TA). Do not, for example, send emails from accounts that you set up in grade nine when you called yourself sailormoon99@hotmail.com or skrboy@yahoo.com
• Use a clear subject line such as “Anth 505 Question” or “Anth 5-5 Student”.
• Use an appropriate greeting to start your email, such as “Dear Dr. Venkataraman”, and sign off with your full name and UCID number. It is always a good idea to err on the side of formality in professional correspondence.
• Do not skip a greeting altogether, or open with, for example, “Hey there”, “What up?” or “Yo!” If you don’t know the name of the Professor or TA start with “Dear Professor or Dear TA”, although taking a peak at the course outline is not a bad idea, rather than advertising that you don’t know the name of the person you are about to ask for something.
• Check the course outline and materials posted on D2L before asking for information that may have already been provided. Again, just to avoid advertising that you don’t come to class or consult the materials that have been provided to you. For example, no need to send an email asking if the final exam is cumulative when this is clearly stated above.

- Use complete sentences and proof-read and spell check your messages.
- We will respond as soon as possible but to be safe please allow 48 hours for a response, excluding weekends and holidays.

Virtual office hours: Due to Covid-19, we will be holding virtual office hours. Dr. Venkataraman will hold a one-hour office hour slot during the week. You may also send an email to make an appointment.

Grading scheme: Each item of course work will be weighted as above and a final mark out of 100 calculated. This will then be converted to a letter grade as follows below. It is not necessary to pass each course component in order to receive a passing grade in the course.

Missed exams or assessments: Students may be asked to provide supporting documentation for an exemption/special request. This may include, but is not limited to, a prolonged absence from a course where participation is required, a missed course assessment, a deferred examination, or an appeal. Students are encouraged to submit documentation that will support their situation. Supporting documentation may be dependent on the reason noted in their personal statement/explanation provided to explain their situation. This could be medical certificate/documentation, references, police reports, invitation letter, or a statutory declaration, etc. The decision to provide supporting documentation that best suits the situation is at the discretion of the student. Students cannot be required to provide specific supporting documentation, such as a medical note. A student who is absent from a test for legitimate reasons must discuss an alternative course of action with the instructor. Deferral of the final exam requires Registrar approval. The instructor at their discretion may transfer the percentage weight for the test to the final examination, if there is a final examination in the course, set another test, etc.

Students can make a Statutory Declaration as their supporting documentation (available at ucalgary.ca/registrar). This requires students to make a declaration in the presence of a Commissioner for Oaths. It demonstrates the importance of honest and accurate information provided and is a legally binding declaration. Several registered Commissioners for Oaths are available to students at no charge, on campus, please see ucalgary.ca/registrar.

Falsification of any supporting documentation will be taken very seriously and may result in disciplinary action through the Academic Discipline regulations or the Student Non-Academic Misconduct policy.

Academic misconduct: “Academic Misconduct” includes such things as cheating, falsification, plagiarism, unauthorized assistance, and failure to comply with exam regulations or an Instructor’s expectations regarding conduct required of Students completing academic assessments. Students who participate in, or encourage the commission of, Academic Misconduct will be subject to disciplinary action which could include Probation, Suspension, or Expulsion from the University. For information on academic misconduct and its consequences, please see the University of Calgary Calendar at https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-3.html

Instructor intellectual property: Course materials created by professor(s) (including course outlines, presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the professor(s). These materials may NOT be reproduced, redistributed or copied without the explicit consent of the professor. The posting of course materials to third party websites such as note-sharing sites without permission is prohibited. Sharing of extracts of these course materials with other students enrolled in the course at the same time may be allowed under fair dealing.

Freedom of information and protection of privacy act: Student information will be collected in accordance with typical (or usual) classroom practice. Students’ assignments will be accessible only by the authorized course faculty. Private information related to the individual student is treated with the utmost regard by the faculty at the University of Calgary.

Students who use material protected by copyright in violation of this policy may be disciplined under the Non-Academic Misconduct Policy.

Writing Across the Curriculum: Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, instructors can and may use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Centre in the Effective Writing Office can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.

Academic Accommodations: Students seeking an accommodation based on disability or medical concerns should contact Student Accessibility Services; SAS will process the request and issue letters of accommodation to instructors. For additional information on support services and accommodations for students with disabilities, visit https://live-ucalgary.ucalgary.ca/student-services/access. Students who require an accommodation in relation to their coursework based on a protected ground other than disability should communicate this need in writing to their Instructor or the Department Head.
