Course Description:
This course provides a general survey of the archaeology of North America, north of Mexico. Temporal coverage will extend from the earliest known evidence for human settlement in the New World up to the period of European contact. Geographical areas discussed will include the Arctic, Subarctic, Plains, Plateau, Great Basin, West Coast, Northwest Coast, and Eastern Woodlands. Although principally descriptive in nature, the course will also encompass current debates, interpretations and issues in North American Archaeology. Students will also gain a basic working knowledge of the methods and goals of archaeological research and how research questions in this field are designed and implemented. By the end of the semester, students will have gained not only an appreciation of the richness of the North American archaeological record, but also an understanding of how archaeologists infer deep histories using both ancient material culture and the historic and living traditions of Native descendant communities. Key themes will be examined through lectures, readings, videos and in-class discussions and activities.

Learning Outcomes:
By the end of the course, students should have the necessary skills and knowledge to:
  o Describe how archaeologists are able to reconstruct the past from material remains.
  o Describe how human groups in North America adapted to and lived in diverse environments, as attested through material culture and human-altered landscapes
  o Outline the locations, chronologies and important characteristics of North American culture areas
  o Explain the lifeways of Indigenous North American cultures prior to contact o Outline the differences in Indigenous cultures in North America before and after contact with Europeans

Course Logistics:
Lectures are presented every week on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in AD142. The course will follow an interactive lecture-discussion style format. Students are responsible for all materials covered in the required readings and the lectures, including films and videos. Ideally, students should read the assigned materials for each week’s lecture ahead of time. Lectures are designed to augment material in the text and will not repeat or cover all material in the text, but will elaborate on selected topics to provide a deeper understanding. Classroom materials missed due to absenteeism are the sole responsibility of the student.
Segments of class time each week will be focused on learning through classroom discussion and other participatory activities. Students are expected to be active participants in these activities and involved in their own learning. Active participation will help you achieve success. A respectful and safe environment for students to participate is considered a priority; disrespectful or condescending behaviours towards other students will not be tolerated.

Communication and Email Policy
Students are encouraged to take advantage of the instructor’s office hours to address any questions or concerns that they may have regarding the course. This is also a good opportunity to discuss concepts and ideas that are covered in class.

Please do NOT expect an immediate reply. Also, note that I will not answer emails related to assignments that are due within 24 hours. Please manage your time accordingly and address concerns well in advance of the due date.

TopHat

Assessment:
The course grade will be assessed through four components: two in-class midterms, one writing assignment, and one final exam scheduled by the Registrar. You do not need to pass all components to pass the course. These components will be weighted as follows:

Assessment Format and Deadlines:

1. Midterm Exams (25% each)

   50 minute in-class midterm exams will take place on Wednesday, February 9 and Friday, March 18. The exams will be closed book, and may include multiple choice, true/false, matching, fill in the blank and/or short answer questions. The midterms are not cumulative, including only material from prior course lectures, readings, audio-visual components and discussions since the time of the last exam. Students must be present prior to the start of the exam to write the exam. Opportunities for a make-up exam will not be offered unless valid documentation is provided (see below). Classroom guidelines for the examination will be posted on D2L.

2. Reading Assignment (20%)

   Students will be responsible for writing 750 word critical summary of news article. For this assignment, students must find a news article in print or on the internet about a topic in North American archaeology, summarize the article and evaluate the sources used in the article by comparing it to what has been learned in class (using lecture notes and the textbook). Article summaries are due by 6 PM on April 1 (this is not an April fools joke…) and must be submitted through Drop Box on D2L as a Word or PDF document. Any material cited from the textbook or other sources used to fact check must be referenced appropriately following the Society for American Archaeology (SAA) reference style. A pdf copy of the SAA Style Guide can be found at https://www.saa.org/publications/american-antiquity. Additional details and instructions will be provided to students on the first day of class.

3. Final Exam (30%)

   The final exam will be a two-hour exam scheduled by the Registrar. This exam is cumulative, including material from all prior course lectures, readings, audio-visual components and discussions. The exam will be closed book and may include multiple choice, true/false, fill in the blank, matching, and/or short answer questions.

Late/Missed Assignments:

Students must provide advance notice if unable to complete the assignment by the due date to request an extension. Students may be asked to provide supporting documentation for an exemption/special request. Assignments submitted after the deadline may be penalized by the loss of 10% of the grade for each day late.
Students who miss a midterm exam must contact the instructor within 24 hours to discuss alternative arrangements/assessments and may be asked to provide supporting documentation for an exemption/special request. Students who miss exams without legitimate documentation will receive a grade of 0 for that exam.

Falsification of any supporting documentation will be taken very seriously and may result in disciplinary action through the Academic Discipline regulations or the Student Non-Academic Misconduct policy.

As per University of Calgary policy, students who have missed a mid-term exam and/or assignment deadline for documented reasons such as illness may arrange alternatives with the instructor. Students are responsible for discussing the situation with the instructor as soon as possible. Should the need for a deferral arise, students are responsible for familiarizing themselves with regulations under the Deferral of Term Work section of the university calendar.

Deferral of the registrar scheduled final exam requires Registrar approval.

Please keep phones on silent mode and, in the event of an emergency, please step outside to take or make any calls.
